(1×6=6)

Scarcity is not created by war; it is a permanent characteristic of all human society and is the basis of all the problem of human race. It springs from the fact that the material resources of the world are limited and that our ability to make use of those resources is even more limited by our ignorance. There are two main sources to derive our wants – the natural resources and the human ability to make use of them. As our knowledge grows we can exploit more and more opportunities in nature for example scientific knowledge. Communication, Railways, steam ships and aircraft and our increasing skill-enables us to get more out of what we can reach. But whatever the rate of development may be at any one time, there is a limit to the total of what can be produced.
